Why “de-dupe?”

Multiple title entries cause confusion

To make fulfillment of holds more efficient

To facilitate searching

To consolidate material formats

To unclutter the database

After removal of duplicate records

What is RDA?

Resource Description and Access

Successor Cataloging format to AACR2

Library of congress will switch to RDA cataloging March 31, 2013.

OCLC is not requiring RDA, but will support both formats.

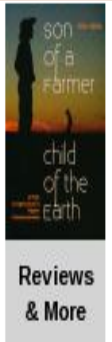

Within OCLC, parallel RDA and AACR2 records will be considered duplicates and merged.

As a fourth-generation farmer, Eric Herm deals with the harsh economic realities and complicated legislation facing farmers, as well as the undeniable health impact of GMO crops and excessive chemicals. The book provides resources of natural, healthy alternatives that will inspire the farmers' transformation from corporate-motivated producers back to the flesh and bone guardian angels of the Earth.
